

Harri Vikstedt

Senior Director

Harri Vikstedt joined the Bank of Canada in 2006 after 17 years working in global financial markets in both Europe and North America. He managed the Bank's Canadian dollar trading operations during the financial crisis, including those related to open market operations and foreign exchange.

Harri is currently a Senior Director in the Financial Markets Department responsible for implementing the Bank's strategy for acquiring and analyzing financial market intelligence, including through the Canadian Foreign Exchange Committee (CFEC) and the Canadian Fixed-Income Forum (CFIF). He is also responsible for overseeing the Bank's trading operations, including those related to the Exchange Fund Account. Harri is a Chartered Financial Analyst and completed engineering and MBA (Finance) degrees at the University of Toronto.